

Q1: Top 10 Customers by Total Spend

- Insight: The top spender reached a lifetime spend of $13,664.08, with high-value buyers ranging from $7,274.88 to $10,953.36. These total amounts are primarily driven by multi-item electronics, office equipment, and high-ticket bulk purchases rather than routine consumer items. This highlights a concentrated group of commercial or high-net-worth buyers generating outsized order values.
- Recommendation: Create a dedicated B2B/VIP Account Manager outreach program to offer wholesale pricing, custom invoicing, and bulk shipping discounts to high-volume buyers.

Q2: Monthly Revenue Trend

- Insight: Monthly revenue expanded consistently from under $60,000 per month in early 2017 to over $1,000,000 per month by mid-2018. This macro trend reflects steady platform adoption, expanding seller networks, and sustained transaction growth across the 2-year window. The steady trajectory proves that marketplace demand scales reliably without significant long-term declines.
- Recommendation: Maintain current top-of-funnel marketing investments, but shift focus toward optimizing operational infrastructure (fulfillment and seller onboarding) to sustain platform growth.

Q3: Month-over-Month (MoM) Revenue Change

- Insight: The largest positive growth occurred in November 2017 with a surge of +$415,204.92 (+53.2% MoM) driven by Black Friday promotions. This peak was immediately followed by a steep December drop of -$316,481.32 (-26.5% MoM) as holiday shopping concluded. This pattern highlights sharp seasonal volatility during Q4 that requires careful revenue forecasting.
- Recommendation: Implement dynamic seasonal ad spend allocations—maximizing marketing budgets in October–November—and introduce December post-holiday clearance promotions to cushion the seasonal dip.

Q4: Top Revenue Product Categories

- Insight: Revenue is led by bed_bath_table ($1,712,553.67), health_beauty ($1,657,373.12), and informatica_accesorios ($1,585,330.45). Together, these top 3 categories account for over 30% of total marketplace gross merchandise value (GMV). This establishes essential home goods, personal care, and technology as the core drivers of platform sales.
- Recommendation: Form strategic partnerships with key suppliers in these top 3 categories to secure exclusive product listings and co-funded promotional campaigns.

Q5: Top 3 Products Within Each Category

- Insight: Revenue within individual categories is heavily concentrated around 1 or 2 specific flagship product IDs. A tiny fraction of top-performing SKUs accounts for the bulk of category-level earnings, while long-tail listings generate minimal order volume. This indicates that category success relies on specific hero items rather than broad catalog engagement.
- Recommendation: Build product bundles (e.g., pairing top-selling items with lower-performing complementary products) and optimize search algorithms to surface high-potential long-tail SKUs.

Q6: Customer Spend Segmentation (Tiers)

- Insight: Out of 96,095 unique customers, 69.9% (67,200) fall into the Low Tier (<$160), 20.2% (19,400) into Medium (160 – $299.99), and 9.9% ($300). Despite representing under 10% of total buyers, the High Tier generates approximately 42% of overall marketplace GMV. This reveals that revenue viability depends heavily on a small segment of premium buyers.
- Recommendation: Launch an exclusive VIP Loyalty Tier featuring perks like priority customer service, early access to sales, and targeted premium product recommendations.

Q7: Buyer Retention (Repeat vs. One-Time Buyers)

- Insight: The platform faces a severe retention deficit, with 93,098 (96.9%) one-time buyers compared to only 2,997 (3.1%) repeat buyers. Growth is currently dependent on continuous, expensive customer acquisition rather than compounding lifetime value. This represents the single largest bottleneck to long-term profitability and sustainable scaling.
- Recommendation: Deploy automated post-purchase email workflows (e.g., 30-day replenishment reminders, personalized discount codes for second purchases) to boost repeat order rates.

Q8: Top Category Revenue Share Percentage

- Insight: The leading product category (bed_bath_table) accounts for 10.7% ($1,712,553.67 / $16,008,872.12) of total platform GMV. This single-digit percentage share confirms that the platform is not over-reliant on any single category for revenue survival. It demonstrates strong product diversification and healthy risk distribution across the marketplace.
- Recommendation: Leverage this balanced catalog diversity in vendor acquisition pitches to recruit sellers in underperforming niche categories without risking revenue stability.